

I would support any Awen bid for grant funding as their creative ways in reaching out to residents is superb. They work with all partner agencies to ensure that all information is collated and included, promoting, and matching corporate well-being objectives for those partners who can assist in service delivery and advise residents that we work together. This assists us in achieving connections and adherence to the Wellbeing of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015.

It also assists us in our endeavours to support successful, sustainable economies, promoting the steps partners have made to make the county borough a great place to do business, for people to live, work, study, and visit, and ensuring that we have the skills, qualifications, and ambitions within our own locality to further develop our community service provision.

Awen's work promotes a more healthy and resilient community, ensuring that information to help people from becoming vulnerable or dependent on partners and their services. It helps them to build their own resilience and enables the development and promotion of community solutions, assisting our residents to have active, healthy, and independent lives.

Awen's work promotes a smarter use of the resources available to us, those of financial, physical, ecological, human, and technological means are all included, as we need to ensure that we are not replicating other partners efforts and ensures that residents have the best opportunities available to them.
